SKILLS TAUGHT:

This elite school is designed to develop the technique of each individual player at a very young age. Our curriculum has a six-part component comprised of the following:

- BALL MASTERY: emphasis on each player working independently with the ball using both feet. Repetition is the key here.
- RECEIVING AND PASSING: this will involve exercises to improve a player's touch and increase accuracy as well as creativity in passing.
- MOVES (1vs.1): exercises which teach the moves that can create space against any defense.
- SPEED, AGILITY AND COORDINATION: focus will be on acceleration, running with and without the ball as well as change of pace.
- FINISHING: game play and exercises that teach techniques for finishing as well as nurturing instinctive play.

ANSWERS TO COMMON QUESTIONS:

Who can participate? The school is available for both boys and girls from the U9 through U10 age groups.

What is the difference between the Academies and this School?

The Academies are designed to form teams that will eventually become a part of a club, so the players are evaluated and trained in a team environment. The school is designed to focus on each individual player rather than on the team. All of the small sided games will be played in the school simply to apply the correct techniques and encourage combination play.

Who will conduct the training? Coach Steve Hirayama, Coach Ken Archer and various coaches from the DTA staff

What should the players wear and bring? Training gear, shin guards, soccer ball and water
