SKILLS TAUGHT:

This elite school is designed to develop the technique of each individual player at a very young age. Our curriculum has a six-part component comprised of the following:

1. BALL MASTERY: emphasis on each player working independently with the ball using both feet. Repetition is the key here.
2. RECEIVING AND PASSING: this will involve exercises to improve a player's touch and increase accuracy as well as creativity in passing.
3. MOVES (1vs.1): exercises which teach the moves that can create space against any defense.
4. SPEED, AGILITY AND COORDINATION: focus will be on acceleration, running with and without the ball as well as change of pace.
5. FINISHING: game play and exercises that teach techniques for finishing as well as nurturing instinctive play.
6. GROUP PLAY: games and exercises that improve small-group combination play.

ANSWERS TO COMMON QUESTIONS:

Who can participate? The school is available for both boys and girls from the U9 through U10 age groups.

Can a player participating in the school play for other teams or academies?

The purpose of the school is to develop players individually and therefore, teams will not be formed in the school. Players can play for any team or academy that they choose to play for in their free time. Players in the DTA Soccer School of Excellence are in no way obligated to play on the Dallas Texans Austin Academy teams.

What is the difference between the Academies and this School? The Academies are designed to form teams that will eventually become a part of a club, so the players are evaluated and trained in a team environment. The school is designed to focus on each individual player rather than on the team. All of the small sided games will be played in the school simply to apply the correct techniques and encourage combination play.

Who will conduct the training? Coach Steve Hirayama, Coach Ken Archer and various coaches from the DTA staff

What should the players wear and bring? Training gear, shin guards, soccer ball and water

How will I know if I am accepted? You will be contacted via email or phone no later than 2 days following your email for reservation.
